Connect with educational technology educators in Egypt as part of the AECT delegation. Led by Dr. Trey Martindale, AECT President, the program will give you a unique opportunity to learn about the state of STEM and educational technology in this developing country in the heart of the Middle East.

The civil unrest and political reform in Egypt that began in 2011 has spurred reforms that continue today, resulting in rapid economic and social growth. Egypt, home to the largest school system in the Middle East, strives to provide equal access to education for girls and boys, and has put specific emphasis on STEM programs, communications programs, and incorporating technology into classrooms throughout the country. Struggling with a teacher shortage, which is near a crisis point in Egypt, and aiming to enact expansive education advancement plans through the Ministry of Education, Egyptian educators are eager to welcome U.S. education experts to discuss challenges and best practices.

LEADER BIOGRAPHY

Trey Martindale is the President of the Association for Educational Communications and Technology. Dr. Martindale has been a professor in instructional design and online learning for twenty years. His career has centered on developing and studying online learning environments, mentoring graduate students, and teaching instructional technology. He is a frequent publisher and presenter, and consultant to business and industry on e-learning and talent development. He has an extensive history of funded research projects and collaborations. In 2018 Dr. Martindale joined Mississippi State University as a full-time administrator, helping faculty succeed in their various roles. He is currently the Department Head in Instructional Systems and Workforce Development in the College of Education at Mississippi State University.

ABOUT WORLD LEARNING

Founded in 1932 on the belief that international exchange programs can provide transformational experiences that cultivate lasting intercultural understanding, tolerance, and respect, World Learning has remained true to this vision. Even as our scope has evolved from student exchanges to include an annual portfolio of $130 million with international education, development, and exchange programs in more than 60 countries, World Learning has remained committed to equipping future leaders to collectively address critical global challenges. For over 85 years, World Learning has designed international exchange programs for emerging leaders, currently hosting more than 3,500 participants each year on inbound and outbound exchanges.

We have the experience and resources critical to creating successful people-to-people exchanges. Our strong network of partners helps us connect with hard-to-reach areas and traditionally excluded constituencies. Innovative programs such as flexible semesters and virtual platforms allow us to reach even more potential participants. We continually assess our programs to ensure their excellence.

Through our exchange programs, World Learning cultivates global partnerships that bolster fair and sustainable social and economic development. Together, we will tackle the world's challenges.
